4. Chairman's report

Mr Eldridge stated that his report had been published in the parish magazine and on the website. And asked if there were any questions regarding its content.

Mr Eldridge thanked the Town Councillors and the Clerk for their work and support during the last year. Thanks was also offered to the County and District Councillors for their support of the town.

5. End of Year Accounts

The accounts were presented as draft accounts, complete as far as available bank statements would allow. The Clerk confirmed that the cash book and bank reconciliation tallied up. The draft accounts were accepted.

6. Guest Speaker – Mr Ben Handford – Naked Marketing

Mr Handford explained that while growing up in Norfolk he didn't know where Hingham was, but since setting up Naked Marketing in the town, he has found it to be a fantastic town with a real sense of community, but saw many people and organisations doing lots of good things for the town but all in isolated bubbles. Mr

2016 -

Handford explained that with a more centralised way of communicating information (such as centralised shared notice boards in prominent positions) that the information available would be less diluted and reach a wider audience (benefitting both residents and visitors to the town). Ben noted that there are currently 18 noticeboards, many holding out of date information, and that while the Town Council website held up to date Council information, the events calendar was empty, and championed the idea of town website or greater use of social media for promoting the clubs/organisations and their events. He suggested that the greens would be an excellent advertising place on the day of an event to entice people driving through.

Mr Handford applauded the idea of a Christmas Market and added that lots of lights in the trees over Christmas to help to make the Town look special. He also praised the Parish Magazine, but said as a business, he did not receive it, and therefore not being resident in the town, was not aware of many of the events that take place. He encouraged more inclusion for the businesses, as they could be a key source of support (possibly both financial and in time and expertise) for the Clubs and Societies needing assistance, suggesting the organisation of a fun event/ challenge, where the businesses could be invited to have a team and take part – with a social event (BBQ) afterward.

A pack for the residents of the new houses was suggested to let them know what organisation/events are available in Hingham, to encourage them to be involved and spend their free time in the town, helping the town to grow and thrive.

The Chairman thanked Mr Handford and invited questions or comments.

From the Audience:

It was stated that the notice boards outside of the town centre were regularly looked at by walkers, probably more so than the ones in the centre of town – one of which is dedicated to the Hingham Society

When the website was set up the Town Council voted against societies being able to access the calendar to promote their events, however a Facebook page has now been set up and will be available for events to be advertised on. It was noted that Facebook is not for everyone – but suggested that a seminar could be put on for those who want to use it but don't know how.

There was some debate as to whether the businesses receive the Parish Magazine, it was explained that any new businesses were approached, but not all wanted to advertise in it and that it was thought that only 4 businesses don't receive it, but it is available in Harrods. It was requested that a copy of the Parish Magazine be given to the businesses in the town.

7. Hingham Surgery – Dr Shaun Conway

Dr Conway said that the work to extend the surgery was now complete, and that 2 new doctors were in post (both part time). The surgery has been hosting medical students since 2014, and would now be taking a short break from this, with more students at a later date. Dr Conway explained that there had been a rise in patient numbers due to Watton Surgery shedding patients, with current patient figures at 5766, and was aware that it was not always possible for patients to see their preferred doctor, but hoped that as patients get use to the new doctors the situation would resolve itself.

Dr Conway outlined the future challenges for the surgery as, reducing time patients wait for their appointment once at the surgery, and the increase in patient numbers that would be brought about by the new houses, but added that this was estimated to take patient numbers to approximately 6000, which the surgery should be able to absorb.

The Chairman thanked Dr Conway, congratulated him on the Surgery being rated 8th best surgery in the country and invited questions or comments.

From the Audience:

It was commented that time spent listening to patients was very much appreciated and it was accepted that this may increase the time waiting in the surgery for appointments.
